

PRIVACY NOTICE

MD Global Partners is committed to protecting your personal data. This Privacy Notice explains how we process and protect your personal data and respect any rights you benefit from under your local law.

Purpose of this Privacy Notice

This Privacy Notice aims to give you information on how we collect and process your personal data, including any data you may provide through this website for example when you sign up to our newsletter, or through one of our virtual data rooms, or if you otherwise get in touch such as by phone or email. It is important that you read this privacy policy together with any other statements or fair processing notices we may provide on specific occasions when we collect or process personal data so that you are fully aware of how and why we are using your data. This Privacy Notice supplements those other notices and is not intended to override them.

Third-Party Links

This website may include links to third-party websites, plug-ins, and applications. Clicking on those links or enabling those connections may allow third parties to collect or share data about you. We do not control these third-party websites and are not responsible for their privacy policies. You should read any policies and other statements on such websites carefully.

Data we process about you

Personal data means any information about an individual from which that person can be identified. It does not include data that has been anonymized such that a person's identity is removed. We may collect, use, store, and transfer different kinds of personal data. The categories of personal data which we process include:

- Contact Data such as names, job titles, and other identifiers together with addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers.
- Client Data including personal data in connection with and as a result of, providing our services (aside from Contact Data). This personal data varies according to the matter in question and in particular, depends on whether you represent a business or are an individual client. For example, we typically hold data about key contacts and other employees within our business clients, including information about their involvement in a matter or transaction. Where we act for individuals, we may hold bank account details, salary details, and employment history including performance and disciplinary matters. In some cases, client data may also include special category data, for example, if your identity documents which you provide us copies of, show your ethnic origin.
- Third-Party Data including data about people other than clients in connection with our services (e.g. Data Room Providers). This usually includes Contact Data about other professionals and counter-parties to a transaction. It might also include data about trustees and beneficiaries such as their names and addresses. It may also include data about the third-party sources of funds and those with a beneficial interest in a particular legal entity.

- Technical Data including internet protocol (IP) addresses, your login data, browser type, and version, time zone setting and location, browser plug-in types and versions, operating system and platform and other technology on the devices you use to access our website. This may also include information about how you use your website and our services.

- Marketing Data includes marketing and communication preferences and data used for networking and business development such as employment history, role, and information about personal interests.

How Personal Data is collected

We use different methods to collect data from and about you including through:

- Direct interactions including when you or your organization seek advice or employment from us, or when you or your organization offer or provide services to us as a vendor.

- Automated technologies or interactions such as when you visit or interact with our website or you email us or provide data in respect of attending MD Global Partners events or send an application for a position with us. With respect to our collection of personal data by the use of cookies.

- Third parties or publicly available sources. We may receive personal data about you from various third parties and public sources including Identity and Contact Data from publicly available sources.

Fair and Lawful Processing

In some cases, where required by local law, we may ask you for explicit consent for processing your personal data for a specific purpose. We only collect, use, disclose, or otherwise process your personal data where it is fair and lawful to do so. Where we need to collect personal data by your local law, under the terms of a contract we have with you or the organization you represent or for another lawful reason and you fail to provide that data, we may not be able to fully perform our obligations in accordance with our contract, provide you with the information you require, or even provide our services to you at all.

Purposes for which we will use your data

- Operating this website
- Providing our services
- Managing our relationship with you
- Managing non-client relationships
- Marketing and business development
- Regulatory Compliance

Your Privacy Rights

Depending on your location, you may have various rights in relation to your personal data towards MD Global Partners, LLC.

These rights may include:

- Request access to your personal data
- Request correction of your personal data
- Request erasure of your personal data
- Object to processing of your personal data

- Request restriction of processing
- Request a data transfer
- Withdraw consent at any time

Data Security

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal data from being accidentally lost, used, or accessed in an unauthorized way, altered or disclosed. In addition, we limit access to your personal data to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need to know. They will only process your personal data on our instructions and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality. We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected personal data breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a breach where we are legally required to do so.

Data Retention

We will only retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfill the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or reporting requirements. To determine the appropriate retention period for personal data, we consider the amount, nature and sensitivity of the personal data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorized use or disclosure of your personal data, the purposes for which we process your personal data, and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements.

Marketing

We strive to provide you with choices regarding certain personal data uses, particularly around marketing. We may use certain of your personal data to form a view on what we think you may want or need, or what may be of interest to you. This is how we decide which services may be relevant to you. You will receive marketing communications from us if you have requested information from us or if you have engaged us to provide services to you and, in each case, you have not opted out of receiving that marketing. You can ask us to stop sending you marketing messages at any time by contacting us at any time.

Changes to this policy

We may update this policy from time to time as the site changes and privacy law evolves. If we update it, we will do so online and follow such other steps as required by applicable law. If you have any questions about handling of your personal information, or about this policy, or if you wish to access your personal information or make a complaint about the way we have collected, used, held or disclosed your personal information, please contact us at compliance@mdgpartners.com
